Hutchenson Island Savannah, Georgia

Hutchenson Island originated as the city of Savannah sought to renovate a historic, cotton shipping dock across from the Savannah River in downtown Savannah, Georgia.

The project incorporated architectural concepts developed in the late 1980's. Various examples include: exterior parks, pedestrian ways, promenades, public spaces, pedestrian zones, green spaces, and a mixed use architectural program accompanied with a festival marketplace, an aquarium, the Georgia State Convention Center, hotels, office buildings, restaurants, multi-family housing, and a renovated marina.
